

ABSTRACT

A medical apparatus is fabricated by providing a coil that has a plurality of primary loops along a longitudinal direction, and for each of one or more of the primary loops,
5 forming one or more secondary loops on the primary loop.

20820784.doc